Circular

07 December 2019

This is to inform all the concerned students that JNU End Semester Examinations are scheduled to begin from 12 December in accordance with the Academic Calendar. All necessary arrangements will be made to ensure a smooth conduct of the examinations. Although a group of agitating students has given a call to boycott these examinations, students are advised not to be misguided by such calls.

It is deplorable that the agitators have threatened the innocent students, most of whom hail from different parts of the country, that they would have to face consequences if they write their examinations. The University Administration has been receiving letters and messages from the bona fide students expressing their anguish over such threats and also worried about their safety at the time of examinations.

The JNU Administration has made necessary arrangements for smooth conduct of the end semester examinations. In the wake of threat to law and order, police assistance may also be sought. The university appeals to the agitators not to spoil the career of their fellow students and advises the students to come forward and write their examinations.
